REPORT OF THE COUNCIL OF THE BRITISH SCHOOL OF ARCHAEOLOGY IN JERUSALEM

Submitted to the Third Annual General Meeting of Subscribers, March, 1923

The Council regret that Mr. D. G. Hogarth has been obliged to retire from the Chairmanship owing to increasing pressure of his University duties, and at the same time express their deep appreciation of his able service throughout the difficult period of the School's organization, which, thanks largely to his personal effort, may now be regarded as surmounted. It is a source of satisfaction that the Rev. Professor Burney has consented to take the Chair thus rendered vacant.

The Council are happy to be able to report a year of satisfactory progress on every side. The financial situation, which last year menaced the School's continuity, has been relieved by a grant in aid from H.M. Treasury, coupled with the prospect of an annual grant of £500 for three coming years. This is contingent upon the supporters of the School contributing an equal sum, and the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury cannot pledge in advance the authority of Parliament. The annual subscription list does in fact now promise to attain the minimum total required, thanks largely to fresh support accorded locally in Jerusalem ; but to balance the budget and make provision for undiminished activity during the present year the Council are compelled provisionally to accept contributions of £100 each from the Director and Assistant Director. This fact, they feel, requires no comment.

The list of subscribers now shows, from all sources : twenty-four Associate Members ; ninety-nine Full Members ; eleven Foundation Members ; and four original Founders, nine Universities and Colleges, contribute £20 each. Should it be found necessary in the course of the year to accept the generous offers of the Director and Assistant Director their names will be added to the list of Foundation Members.

The Hon. Treasurer and Founder, Mr. Robert Mond, has maintained his unfailing interest in the School's affairs, and has promised a further annual contribution of £200 towards the general funds.

There are now four students of University status on the books ; two of them, Mr. G. M. Fitzgerald and Mr. Stiven, commenced their studies during the past year, and the Director reports upon their work below. The other two, Mr. F. Turville-Petre, of Exeter College, Oxford, and Major G. Horsfield, will take up their residence during the present academic year.

Mr. Fitzgerald has signified his intention of assisting the further researches of the School by a gift of £200, which the Council have accepted gratefully. The Baron Edmond de Rothschild has also generously placed an equal sum at the Director's disposal towards the further excavation of Tell Harbaj. Thanks to these gifts, a season of interesting and important field-work is assured to the workers of the School in Palestine.

The Council approved the policy of commencing active field-work during the year under review, so far as special contributions permitted, both for the more effective training of students and as a desirable feature of the School's programme. Two Bulletins have been issued and copies have been issued to all subscribing members. The first contained a brief outline of the prospect of work in Palestine, with an appeal for a broad outlook, from the Director, Professor Garstang, based on a study of ' Hittite and Trojan allies ' by the Assistant Director, Mr. Phythian Adams. The second embodied the first-fruits of the School's explorations in the Plain of Acre, pointing to the possible identity of Tell Harbaj with ' Harosheth of the Gentiles.' The Council feel that the body of subscribers will join with them in congratulating the workers in the School on the excellent start that has been made in this respect. Further Bulletins will be issued from time to time as results demand and resources permit.

It is the policy of the Council, acting upon the studied advice of the Director, so to direct their field-work as to provide varied and interesting experience and training for their students with a minimum of expense. To this end, there will be undertaken the exploration of caves and tombs, an important work rendered urgent by continual plundering, and the cutting of sections in mounds whereby to determine their origins and periods of occupation. In this way there will gradually be acquired the much needed comparative materials which will prove a solid basis for all future investigations, whether in the study or in the field. But the School is not primarily an excavating body, and no extensive single excavation will normally be undertaken unless specially endowed. Rather the School will be the ' clearing house ' for excavators where their results may be studied, classified, and compared.

In this connexion the Council note that the number of Registers in the Record system on cards, which was also a special feature of the Director's initial programme, now totals 7,138. Students and Inspectors now find these of daily use, and the Director feels now able to provide sets or selections on special subjects or periods to workers desiring them, on payment of clerical costs involved. The Director still requires the help of volunteers in preparing cards, of which some account is given later in this report.

In regard to the accounts of moneys received and spent during the year, the Council feel that the figures speak largely for themselves. Expenses in Jerusalem, now that the initial charges of installation have been met, are reduced by half, to £400, a figure just within the Director's estimates, which cannot be further reduced without loss of efficiency. In the estimates for the coming year, the generous donations already acknowledged enable some additional provision to be made for purchase of books and equipment and for expenses of expeditions. The Library is still very inadequate, notwithstanding the bequest of the late Dr. Sanday and other accessions by gift ; much of the reading of our students and workers has been done in the libraries of the American and French Schools in Jerusalem, which unhesitatingly place all their resources at our disposal, a courtesy greatly to be appreciated, which the Council and Director desire to reciprocate wholeheartedly.

Among other items of interest collated from the Director's reports there may be specially noticed the following :—

The School has been visited by a number of archaeologists from Great Britain and the Colonies as well as from Syria and France ; also by two of our Vice-Presidents, the High Commissioner for Palestine, Sir Herbert Samuel, whose help and interest in our work are unfailing, and by Field-Marshal Viscount Allenby.

The Director and Assistant Director have delivered a course of public lectures on the ' Neighbours of Palestine.' The latter opened the course in the Spring with four lectures on ' The Inland Sea,' in which he gave a studied account of the maritime relationship of Palestine with Egypt, Asia Minor and the Aegean, combining an outline of the archaeological geography of these areas with a re-examination of the relevant portions of Greek legend. The Director continued in the Autumn with an outline of the Geography and Archaeology of the Egyptian and Hittite areas, the historical relations by land and a review of recent additions to our knowledge of the Hittites. The lectures were illustrated ; they were well-attended, and aroused a noticeable interest in the work of the School in Jerusalem.

In the Museum the increasing collections of potsherds have been arranged in a series of contiguous map-presses, in a way which preserves the stratigraphical relations (in the superposed drawers) and secures the geographical sequence, so handy for rapid consultation.

In connexion with the Records, the Director desires to thank particularly Miss Hussey, Lady Watson and Dr. Meyer for their unflagging contributions.

Relations with the Directors and Staffs of the American and French Schools of Archaeology continue to be of the most cordial and helpful character. Conferences with them and consultations with excavators have resulted in agreement as to systems of nomenclature and classification. In regard to Chronology, the results show the desirability of not adopting fresh or exclusive terms, using for the present such familiar expressions as ' Stone Age,' ' Bronze Age ' and ' (Early) Iron Age,' followed by ' Graeco Roman,' ' Byzantine,' and ' Arab,' leaving experience to determine the appropriate subdivisions and classes.

In further regard to the Students, Mr. G. M. Fitzgerald has taken part in all the field-work of the School, both at Harbaj and vicinity and in the work which the Assistant Director has conducted in the neighbourhood of Gaza for the Palestine Exploration Fund. He has also, by courtesy of Dr. Fisher, spent several months at the excavation of Beisan by the University of Pennsylvania. He is now following a course in Semitic languages at the French School (Ecole Biblique) by favour of Père Lagrange, the esteemed Director of that Institution. Mr. David S. Stiven, Maclean Scholar in Semitic languages in the University of Glasgow, whose time is more restricted, is taking an intensive special course in regional archaeology under the personal supervision of the Assistant Director, with parallel topographical field-work. Both students, by favour of Dr. Albright, have been enabled to attend selected classes and expeditions of the American School.

Copies of Registers, on paper, can be made for subscribers at cost price; and for non-subscribers at a charge of 1s. per card. Application should be made to the Director, at P.O.B. 357 Jerusalem, from whom also details may be obtained.

The Council invite the co-operation of volunteers in the preparation of Registers. The section on Topography etc. (SITES) is already of permanent and constant usefulness, and the gradual completion of this endeavour to classify the archaeological material relating to Palestine will prove an ever-increasing facility to Students of the future. The Director points out that the work does not necessarily require special knowledge, while adding interest and method to the reading of books on the subjects involved. He will be glad to hear from would-be helpers willing to prepare one card per day.
